

#01 Salv. – Hawaii –

A young lady in Hawaii in her early twenties came to church one Sunday morning with another lady who had been attending services. She was attractively dressed and wearing a hat which was unusual for those attending our services. At the invitation she came forward and was gloriously saved with a broken and repentant heart. She told me during our counseling after service that she was living with a man and I informed her that she must not do that since they were not married. This was a new beginning in her life and that she must now obey the Lord and live according to God's will for her life.

Wednesday night she returned to our service with her head covered with bandages. She informed us that she had gone to her house and locked the door.

When the man came she would not let him in but told him of her Salvation. He broke in, grabbed her and threw her against a chest. Her head hit the corner of the chest and the scalp was ripped open taking 36 stitches to sew it back together at the hospital.

She stopped living with the man and was very faithful to come to church afterward bringing her little 5 or 6 year old girl with her. As she grew in the Lord she became a wonderful Sunday school teacher. One Wednesday night during a testimony service she stood and said "My favorite scripture is Psalm 30:3 "O LORD, thou hast brought up my soul from the grave: thou hast kept me alive, that I should not go down to the pit."

She held up her arms so we could see her wrists and showed us scars on each wrist where she had tried to commit suicide several times and each time someone found her before she died. She said "The Lord brought up my soul from the grave and kept me alive until He brought me to church where I could be saved and given eternal life!" It was a glorious Testimony!

© Bob Griggs Ministries bbfibobgriggs.com
Permission is given to store, translate, duplicate,
& distribute by any means without charge or change.

#01 Salv. – Hawaii –

A young lady in Hawaii in her early twenties came to church one Sunday morning with another lady who had been attending services. She was attractively dressed and wearing a hat which was unusual for those attending our services. At the invitation she came forward and was gloriously saved with a broken and repentant heart. She told me during our counseling after service that she was living with a man and I informed her that she must not do that since they were not married. This was a new beginning in her life and that she must now obey the Lord and live according to God's will for her life.

Wednesday night she returned to our service with her head covered with bandages. She informed us that she had gone to her house and locked the door.

When the man came she would not let him in but told him of her Salvation. He broke in, grabbed her and threw her against a chest. Her head hit the corner of the chest and the scalp was ripped open taking 36 stitches to sew it back together at the hospital.

She stopped living with the man and was very faithful to come to church afterward bringing her little 5 or 6 year old girl with her. As she grew in the Lord she became a wonderful Sunday school teacher. One Wednesday night during a testimony service she stood and said "My favorite scripture is Psalm 30:3 "O LORD, thou hast brought up my soul from the grave: thou hast kept me alive, that I should not go down to the pit."

She held up her arms so we could see her wrists and showed us scars on each wrist where she had tried to commit suicide several times and each time someone found her before she died. She said "The Lord brought up my soul from the grave and kept me alive until He brought me to church where I could be saved and given eternal life!" It was a glorious Testimony!

© Bob Griggs Ministries bbfibobgriggs.com
Permission is given to store, translate, duplicate,
& distribute by any means without charge or change.